BRYAN CONVERTS.

Senator Scott Pays His Respects to Schurz, Cockran, Olney, Hill and Watterson-Details That are Instructive and Diverting.

New York Sun: "The half dozen or of recent conspicuous converts to Bryanism attempt to justify their change of front by what is perhaps the most curious and also the most irrational line of argument ever made use of in a political campaign," remarked Senator Scott, at Republican national headquarters, this morning. "All of them, Schurz, Cockran, Olney, Hill, them. Schurz, Cockran, Olney, Illi, Waterson—make substantially the same plea. They state that they opposed Bryan four years ago because they considered him and his doctrines dangerous, but that they now support him because they consider that he has become a safe man, who will not practice, if President, the doctrines which he has preached as a candidate. If there was preached as a candidate placed in a more humilating position than Mr. Bryan is placed, by these eleventh-hour converts to his cause, my memory certainly does not recall it. All these men opposed free silver in 1966, and they all opposed thow, and said at Topeka last month that the silver quention was still more important than it was four years ago. But these men, although professing not to have changed their principles, support Bryan because they say that he has changed his principles, or will change them as soon as he gets into the white house; and, moreover, forsooth, they have railled to his support because they have learned lately to admite his sterilus character—that is to not the house they have learned lately to admite his sterilus character—that is to not believe he will do what he promises to do, and they admire him because they have lately have they do not believe he will for what he promises to do, and they admire him because they do not believe we will support they do not believe the will for white he was they do not believe he will for what he promises to do, and they admire him because they do not believe when the support they do not believe the will for white he was they do not only in-Watterson-make substantially Few Details Instructive.

"A few details may be not only structive but diverting. Colonel Watterson now supports Mr. Bryan as an honest, safe man, but in 1896 he de-scribed him as 'a dishonest dodger, a daring adventurer and a political fa-kir.' But Bryan is the same Bryan of 1896, and his principles, as announced by himself, have undergone no altera-

by himself, have undergone no alterations.

"Mr. Cockran, in coming out for Bryan the other day, said he did not believe that Mr. Bryan as President would undertake to pay off the national obligations in silver, because he had too high an opinion of Mr. Bryan's honor and sincerity. But Mr. Bryan's honor and subbliely stated, over and over again,
that the gold standard would not be maintained in this country longer than he could help it, and that he should get rid of it at the first opportunity. If Mr.
Bryan is a sincere man he must mean this, which he has said repeatedly, but Mr. Cockran thinks it would be a proof of his sincerity if he should
what he has said he would do.

There is no Danger.

There is no Danger.

"Four years ago Mr. Bryan threater ed publicly that he and his party would prosecute their war of extermination prosecute their war of extermination against the gold standard to the bitter end, and Mr. Schurz then said that Mr. Bryan's election, with such a programme as this, would produce the most violent and destructive panic on record; but now, although Mr. Bryan has not announced any change in the programme, Mr. Schurz calmly announces that there is no danger. "In brief, the indications are very strong that there is quite a good-sized cat in the meal somewhere. Experienced and intelligent men like these are not foolish excuses. If they wish to retrace their steps and vote now for the man whom they repudiated in 1896, let them do so by all means; they have a right to do so without giving any reasons whatever. But the reasons which they have a type they have a type they have a right to do so without giving any reasons whatever. let them doso by all means; they have a right to do so without giving any reasons white the reasons which they have given will do neither themselyes nor their candidate any sood. It would have been far better for them simply to have said either that they think they made a mistake in 1896 and wish to correct the mistake mow, or that they have received inside information which renders them confident that Mr. Bryan, if elected, will not pursue the disastrous course which he has pledged himself to pursue, as marked out by the Democratic platform, in which latter case they might have applause his change of views, but not his 'bionor' and 'sincerity.' As it is, they have simply rendered themselves they have simply rendered themselves and their candidate absurd."

OLD LOVERS UNITED

After a Lapse of Nearly Fifty Years-Culmination of a Virginia Romance.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. FAIRMONT, W. Va., Sept. 12.—A romance which had its start at Berkeley Springs nearly half a century ago, has just culminated in the marriage of Mrs. Sarah Bechtol, aged sixty years and Mathias Karn, aged sixty-seven years, superintendent of the Illinois Central railroad, with headquarters at New Orleans, La. The bride, then sixteen years of age, was seated on the doorstep of her father's home at Berkeley Springs, when a runaway horse threw James Bechtol at her feet. He was carried into her father's home and Mrs. Bechtol nursed him through his injuries. In two years they were married. Mathias Karn had been her lover, and he left Berkeley Springs broken hearted. He married in the west, his wife dying at New Orleans two years ago. Mrs. Bechtol's husband was killed at Uniontown, Pa., nine years ago. Through correspondence, which started last January, the marriage, which was solemnized last Thursday night at McKeesport, was arranged. The bride has five children and six grand-children, while the groom has four children and nine grandchildren. Central railroad, with headquarters at American patriotism. During the celebration and concert at the queen's residence she arose when "The Scar Spangled Banner" was played, and kept her seat during the playing of the Ha-wallan national anthem. This action greatly surprised the natives." It was Star Spangled Banner" was not the national anthem in Hawaii, and not in the old Hawaiian hymn. This action may have a good deal of political effect as a reply from the queen to those natives who are urging the organization of the independent party with the idea that the restoration of the monarchy is still a possibility.

THE WALLACE SHOWS.

This Great Tented Attraction Comes Here Next Week.

The Great Wallace Shows, which will exhibit in Wheeling, Thursday, September 20, recently exhibited two days in Washington City, D. C. After the circus had departed the Washington Times commented as follows:

"Human nature," said Eugene Field,
"is not proof against time, tide and circuses" Certainly nothing since the ceremonies attendant upon the inauguration of President McKinley has drawn forth so dense a mass of humanity as did the Wallace circus cavalcade. did the Wallace circus cavaicage. On the parade itself only the most favorable things can be said. Some sixty cages were in line, each one containing its portion of the big menageric.

A feature of the procession was in cages were in line, each one containing its portion of the big menageris.

A feature of the procession was in the fact that the horses shown were, without exception, remarkably fine. Even the animals used in drawing the cages were apparently of good blood, and were certainly well groomed. With the racers the lineage was indisputable. Slim ankles, delicate nostrils, muscular shoulders and long fetlocks all attested to their birth and breeding. Especially beautiful were the eight steeds attached to the Roman charlots in line. These were sorted in two fours of precise color and probably drove what Kentuckians there may have been along the route into a fire of enthuslam only quenchable by the other two products of the Blue Grass state. A score of Shetiand ponies made up the list of horses, and justified the Wallace claims to keeping the finest stable on the road.

seemed satisfied. Notwithstanding the downward course of sterling exchange, opinions are strangely persistent. In some quarters that gold will soon go out to London. Currency continues to move freely towards the south and west and the sub-treasury is taking small sums from the market, with the cessation of the transfer of Pacific coast gold and the practical discontinuance of operations under the government refunding law. Local money rates are slightly firmer in tone as a consequence. To-day's bond market was barren of any feature. Total sales par value $775,000.
